

RiskLab Essay Contest in decision engineering under Risk (Ecdcr)

On May 8, 2011, RiskLab announced a new project: the RiskLab Essay Contest in decision engineering under Risk (Ecdcr).

The main aims of Ecdcr are to stimulate intellectual debate, to contribute to the development of risk-based decision engineering methodologies, and to promote best risk management practices. Ecdcr welcomes both theoretical and empirical research papers within the risk field from the areas of financial engineering, industrial engineering and health sciences and engineering, as well as articles related to decision making, regulation and policy issues in all disciplines. Submitted papers must be in English and follow the format of the journal Systems Engineering Procedia.

Appropriate candidate papers from this contest will be published in Systems Engineering Procedia. Winners will be awarded with certificates from the organizer, in the name of both Elsevier and RiskLab. Winners' name will appear on Elsevier and RiskLab's official websites and newsletters. Selected papers will be invited to submit an extension work to SSCI/SCI indexed Elsevier journals*.

The submission deadline of the first contest will be October 30 2011. All interested scholars and researchers are welcome to participate.

For submission and other information, please see the Systems Engineering Procedia homepage: www.elsevier.com/locate/sepro or the RiskLab page: <http://risklab.utoronto.ca/news/elsevier>. RiskLab Global is pleased to offer interested scholars and researchers the opportunity to participate in Ecdcr.
